EVERY NOW AND THEN PEOPLE think of how they might have been benefitted if they had done differently; of how many steps would have been saved if they had taken the shortest route; of how much they would have profited if they had paid a few cents more and got a good article, instead of taking the cheaper; for example: suppose you pay 20c for a pair of gloves, said to be just as good as others ask 25 cents for; but you are deceived, you soon have to buy another pair, thus expending 40 cents. Your neighbor comes to us, pays us 25 cents, gets a good pair, and actually gets more wear and more comfort out of the investment, and thus saves 15 cents. Who is ahead? Does it pay to buy shoddy? Draw your own conclusion.

EVERY CITY HAS ITS REPRESENTATIVE dry goods store, and Janesville is no exception. Why are we the recognized headquarters? Look at the size of our store, at the size of our stock at the volume of the business we do. How did we acquire such a foothold? By doing business on strictly business principles, by misrepresenting no goods, by being accommodating, by studying the interests of the people and keeping what they want. Acquaint yourself with our way of conducting a dry goods store by trading with us and see how you come out.

CLOSED THEIR DEALS.

R. W. Dunham & Co., Grain Commission Dealers at Chicago, Quit Business--A Receiver Appointed.

CHICAGO, June 17--R. W. Dunham & Co., commission merchants and well-known operators, have closed out their deals on the board of trade and announced their retirement from the business of brokers and bankers. The announcement caused considerable excitement on the board of trade, as the firm has been in business in this city many years and has always been regarded as a solid institution. The members of the firm insist, however, that their action is not tantamount to a failure.

Later in the day ex-Congressman Dunham filed a bill in the circuit court explaining the condition of the firm and asking the appointment of a receiver. The bill represented that on June 1, 1891, the applicant entered into a verbal agreement with Noah P. Harrison and T. Walter Brown to form a partnership in the commission business on the board of trade. He was to receive three-fourths of the profits and the other partners one-eighth each. Mr. Dunham said that there was not sufficient capital to successfully continue the partnership. The outstanding liabilities exceeded $100,000 and the assets outstanding, mostly in accounts, had exceeded $100,000. Some of the customers had already commenced suit against members of the copartnership, and as it was impossible to meet the liabilities without the assistance of a receiver the applicant asked that the partnership be declared ended and a receiver appointed to close up the affairs of the firm. The court appointed the Illinois Trust and Savings bank as receiver.

DESOLATION.

It Marks the District in Wisconsin Recently Swept by Forest Fires--A New Feature of the New Orleans Incident.

CHICAGO, June 17--"One hundred square miles of desolation; millions of acres of burned timber land," is how C. H. Coon, of New York, briefly describes the burned district of Wisconsin. Mr. Coon, who is stopping at the Leland, has just returned from the district recently devastated by fire, and he says a person who has not visited that part of the country since the flames swept over it can form no conception of the desolation there. Mr. Coon was at Eagle river when the fires started with a fishing party, and remained in the country until last week. He says: "From Eagle river to the Big St. Germain, to the Little St. Germain, and beyond Ashland the country is nothing but charred timberland. The damage done to the lumber interests there is irreparable, and if rain does not soon reach the charred country all kinds of vegetation will be killed and the country will be as barren as a desert. Before the flames broke out raspberry, hazel, mulberry and many other bushes grew everywhere, but now not a shrub is to be seen, and it is doubtful if the roots are not dead long before this. The abundance of game there did not escape the ravages of the flames, but now not a live bird is to be seen. There are thousands of dead ones, however. It was nesting time for the birds, and before they could be induced to leave their eggs or young they perished. I also saw the carcasses of several bears that had been unable to escape. It was the terrific winds that made the fires so fierce. A hurricane seemed to blow all the time the fire was at its height, and it was impossible for slow-footed animals to escape."

Convict Kaiser Recaptured.

JOLIET, Ill., June 17--John Kaiser, the Jo Daviess convict who escaped from the penitentiary last Friday night, was brought back Tuesday evening to serve the balance of his term. He had broken into a shed in La Salle Sunday night to steal clothes and was arrested by City Marshal Thomas Doyle, who identified him at once from the descriptions and photographs which the prison authorities had promptly sent out all over the country.

DEATH IN A WRECK.

Milwaukee & St. Paul Train Plunges Through a Bridge.

BAD WRECK NEAR COON RAPIDS, IA.

A Passenger Train Rolls Down an Embankment Into the Coon River--Two Lives Lost--A Number of Persons Hurt.

COON RAPIDS, Ia., June 17--The Omaha and Chicago express on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road was wrecked at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday night about a half mile from this place. The engine, it is supposed, struck a broken rail as the train was approaching the bridge over the Coon river. The engine jumped the track and plunged down the river bank, followed by the baggage car, mail car, smoker, one passenger car and one sleeper. The engineer and the fireman escaped with slight injuries, the latter jumping before the engine went down. Two passengers who were in the sleeper, was badly injured, and two passengers were crushed to death. Their names are not yet known, but it is presumed they were from Omaha, being in the Omaha sleeper. Thirty passengers were seriously injured, but no particulars have yet been obtained as to their condition or the extent of their injuries. A heavy rain was falling at the time of the accident and the place was enveloped in darkness for some time. Doctors from Coon Rapids and from Bayard and Perry, neighboring stations on the Omaha road, went to the scene of the accident, and are doing all in their power for the wounded passengers. One of the sleepers which remained on the track has been turned into a hospital for the injured, and the passengers who were not hurt have been brought to Coon Rapids. It is supposed that the heavy rain caused the roadbed to give way and the rail to break. Every possible attention is being given to the victims of the wreck. The engine and cars are piled up at the bottom of the embankment approaching the bridge, and it is possible there may be bodies still undiscovered. Early reports from the scene of the wreck indicate that none of the cars went into the water, but it is now rumored that the baggage car lies at the bottom of the stream. Whether the baggage men escaped cannot be told, but it is likely that they too have perished. The Coon river is usually quite narrow and shallow, but the recent rains have swollen it greatly until it is now a formidable river.

DR. VERDI REWARDED.

Knighted by King Humbert for His Utterances on the New Orleans Incident.

NEW YORK, June 17--A special to the Press from Washington says that information has been received that King Humbert, of Italy, on the recommendation of Premier Rudini and Baron Fava, has knighted Dr. T. S. Verdi, of Washington, and bestowed upon him the title of chevalier in return for extraordinary services rendered that country. Verdi was formerly a barber in Washington and claims allegiance to this country. At the time of the New Orleans incident Verdi was interviewed and denounced the New Orleans people bitterly. It is believed that this interview earned him the title and that King Humbert by this act desires to show his hatred of this country by approving such language.

M'KINLEY THE MAN.

Ohio Republicans Nominate Him for Governor To-Day.

HE WAS NAMED BY ACCLAMATION.

The Convention the Most Important Ever Held in That State--The Nomination of Major McKinley Had Been a Foregone Conclusion for Weeks

COLUMBUS, O., June 17--[Special]--As was predicted William McKinley was nominated for governor of Ohio at the republican convention at Columbus to-day. The nomination was made by acclamation. When the convention was opened yesterday the gravel fell on one of the largest and most enthusiastic republican state conventions the Buckeye commonwealth has ever known. The importance of the result of this campaign, not only to the state but to the nation, is fully realized by the typical "Ohio man," and all the artifices and devices known to modern politics will doubtless be exerted by both parties to win a favorable verdict from the people next November.

With the election of Gov. Campbell to the gubernatorial chair two years ago the democrats won a most decisive victory in the Buckeye state; and the struggle which the republicans of the state and nation have now begun to redeem Ohio to their party will only be equalled by the herculean efforts which the democracy will exert to keep the advantage already won in this quasi-pivotal state of the union. It is felt, though no one explains why, that Ohio goes this year so will it go in the presidential election of 1892, and it is this feeling, which with many amounts almost to conviction, that makes the convention an event, as its temporary chairman remarked, "which will make history in the eyes of the people."

The nomination of William McKinley, ex-congressman and author of the tariff law, for the high office of governor has been a foregone conclusion for some weeks. The renomination by the democrats of Gov. James E. Campbell for another term, also, was a foregone conclusion, and the contest was safely warranted by the signs in the political sky, and the chief contest for the next four months will be between McKinley and Campbell, the candidates for the other state offices being almost lost from sight in the great interest which centers in the leaders.

For some days many of his admirers have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select John Sherman as temporary chairman of the convention. Right here the first serious dispute arose. The ambition of ex-Gov. Foraker to succeed to the United States senate should the next legislature be republican is well known, and the Foraker men maintained that it would not be complying with the conditions of neutrality or implied armistice to show this preference to Senator Sherman. It seemed likely that the committee on organization would select Senator Sherman, in spite of the mutterings, "the name of Gen. Asa S. Bushnell was suddenly suggested by the Foraker men as a compromise. This settled the dispute, and the permanent chairmanship and what was unanimously conferred upon Gen. Bushnell.

The unusual spectacle of 1,000 men marching in line under a scorching sun of 90 degrees in the shade was witnessed at midday, when McKinley arrived in the city on a special train from Canton. He was accompanied by all his old republican friends and neighbors, and several of the marching clubs of his section of the state. Cheer after cheer arose from the vast crowd at the depot as the train rolled in, the chief of the escort to the carriage in waiting and on to the Neil house began. Along the entire distance, fully a mile, the sidewalks were literally packed by thousands. Flags and bunting adorned the streets.

The convention was held to order at the opera house at 2:45 p. m. by L. M. King, chairman of the state central committee, who introduced Col. "Bob" Nerven, of Dayton, as temporary chairman. Both Mr. King and Mr. Nerven made speeches, and their reference to Harrison, Sherman, Blaine, McKinley and the late President were the cause of much excited cheering.

The congressional delegations of the twenty-one districts of the state then reported the members of the new state central committee selected at the afternoon meeting and the convention adjourned until to-day.

The evening was devoted to receptions and music and speech-making. The Lincoln club tendered a reception to McKinley, which was attended by an immense crowd, including the leading republicans of the state. Addresses were made by Senator Sherman, Maj. McKinley and ex-Gov. Foraker.

Women Go Out on Strike.

LONDON, June 17--The expected strike of the laundrywomen was inaugurated in a vigorous manner Tuesday morning. Three hundred female employees of the laundries of North London went out to enforce a demand for a working day of eight hours with pay at the rate of 42 pence per diem for the same. Later in the day the striking women formed in procession and marched from laundry to laundry, smashed the windows of the different establishments where non-union labor was employed and dragged out such of the laundrywomen as manifested a disposition to remain at work. When the police appeared upon the scene it was only to be jeered at by the belligerent women, who went right ahead with their work of destruction and in defiance without regard to the officers.

Ordered to Stay at Home.

VALEJO, Cal., June 17--Orders were received at the Mare Island navy yard from Washington Tuesday afternoon countermanning the orders received Monday which directed the Thetis, Alert and Mohican to proceed to Behring sea. The Thetis has already left the navy yard. Naval officials do not understand the order.

Victims of Dynamite.

PATERSON, N. J., June 17--Two Italians were killed and three others perhaps fatally injured by a dynamite explosion Monday on the work of the Newark water supply and pipe line of the East Jersey Water Company, between Bloomingdale and Pompton.

A TARIFF PICTURE.

This is the way the New York Press presents the figures on steel rail making.
It is one of the great industries built up by protection and still growing rapidly. We made in 1889 1,691,264 tons of steel rails, and in 1890 2,091,798 tons.

We didn't produce any at all in 1867, and the price was $166 in currency, or, in gold, $138 per ton.
The average price last year was, $31.75 per ton.

NEED AMERICAN GRAIN.

Peru has abolished duties on cereals and provisions and France has cut off her tariff on cereals. Germany is discussing the advisability of such action and admits that her breadstuffs supply is well nigh exhausted. The condition in other European countries are about as they are in France and Germany.
In fact for the first time in 30 years there is no surplus grain in the grainaries of the world, and the promise of a full crop on the American farms this year is all the more cheerful because it carries with it assurances of higher prices than have prevailed hitherto for years. This is the farmers' year.

SOLD VOTES IN ADVANCE.

La Crosse anti-prohibitionists promise plenty of entertainment for state democratic leaders at the Janesville convention. A local paper has interviewed some of them in relation to Chairman Wall's statement that that society contributed no funds to the democratic campaign, and they all insist that while their money was not paid directly into his hands, there was a distinct understanding with him that they should put up money for certain democratic candidates for the legislature, in return for the repeal of the present liquor law.

CAN THEY REVISE THE CONSTITUTION?

Attorney General O'Connor, aided by the adjutant general of Wisconsin's reform administration, should lose no time now in informing the public in what officer is vested authority to correct the blunders, and amend the laws, of a defunct legislature, and also what limit the constitution and revised statutes puts on an executive approval. It would be very interesting reading to the tax-payers of Janesville at the present time.

According to The Grand Junction (Col.) News, there is red tape even in the west. A Navajo pupil at Teller Institute was found to have one of his feet endowed with a surplus toe, and the superintendent ordered a pair of shoes for him from a local shop, at a cost of $5. Secretary Noble disputed the bill. Then the superintendent wrote to the secretary: "Indian boy here with six toes; can't possibly wear government shoes. What shall I do?" The secretary answered: "Off with his toe." Next the superintendent asked: "Which toe?" And the secretary wrote: "Sixth toe, of course." If the secretary thought that that ended it he was wrong. Again the superintendent addressed him, saying: "Toe off. What shall I do with it?" To which the secretary made final answer: "Ship it to Topoka for interment in government graveyard."

Although some of the fire insurance companies in New York city have not realized great profits of recent years, they have unanimously voted to expend over $200,000 in continuing the work of the fire patrol in that city. The men employed by the patrol do not extinguish the fire, but use their best efforts to prevent unnecessary damage to goods. Their labors have been effective in the past, and the fire insurance companies by the action which they have just taken show that they properly appreciate the work of the patrol in saving property.

A sunstroke is not an accident. So the United States circuit court in Missouri has just decided. The decision is interesting because the point was raised in a suit involving an accident insurance policy. According to the judge, a sunstroke is no more an accident than a toothache or the measles, being "a disease of the brain arising from natural and known causes." As the sun is undeniably natural and as something is known about it, there is no reason to expect the circuit court's philosophical decision to be overthrown on appeal.

Another Manipur chief has been sentenced to hang for rebellion against the Empress of India and the murder of a British subject. This fact only emphasizes the peculiar precedent set in the Plenty Horses trial, where the Sioux murderer was adjudged innocent of murder.

POSSIVIT COURT, in Georgia, has developed an infantile prodigy, who at four years of age can read difficult music correctly at sight. His voice is soft and tuneful and he bids fair to become famous.

RUBINSTEIN is making a book on Music and Musicians, excluding references to living men. He makes the interesting declaration that instead of being reformers, Wagner, Liszt and Berlioz placed serious obstacles in the path of musical progress.

The duke of Sutherland, who is something of a musical enthusiast, has erected a large organ in the grand hall at Stafford-house, London. The instrument, which is the largest and most complete of any in private residences in England, is blown by a hydraulic engine, and cost £6,000.

THE PARROT'S CHATTER.

Many of our Free-trade contemporaries pleased themselves and their Anglo-American readers and owners by mentioning the duties imposed on articles used at the Tariff League dinner or worn by the guests, and asserting, either directly or by implication, that these duties were added to the cost of the articles used.

The World in particular was very much exercised over the increased cost of clothing, and gave a long list of garments and other accoutrements with the duty and what it calls the tax added. Some of these items are reproduced, as:

Duty. Tax.
1 pair socks, cotton, $1 doz. and 60 p. c. 21
Now a man has either to buy something extremely fancy or go to the store of a "reformer" to pay more than 25 cents for a pair of cotton socks.

Duty. Tax.
1 shirt,..... 55 p. c. 25
These are sold at any store off from Fifth avenue boiled and starched for $1, or unaltered for 89 cents.

Duty. Tax.
1 suit clothing,..... 45 p. c. and 60 p. c. 14 40
The stores are full of good suits of clothes for $10, and more suits of clothes, coat, vest and trousers, are sold in this city for less than $15 than at a greater price.

Duty. Tax.
1 pair eyeglasses,..... 60 p. c. 18
1 pair eyeglass frames,..... 60 p. c. 18

Possibly The World's nose is so constructed that it is necessary for it on buying a pair of eyeglasses to immediately purchase a pair of eyeglass frames, but most people don't have to do it.

Duty. Tax.
1 cord for eyeglasses,..... 50 p. c. 25
This is a "snide" charge. Even the street vendors who peddle eyeglasses at 25 cents a pair throw in a cord.

Duty. Tax.
1 watch,..... 25 p. c. 5 00
This is rather an unfortunate item, in view of the following which appeared in many newspapers just before the dinner, from a paper read by Mr. Jeremiah Head, of Middlesborough, England, on his visit to this country.

"If you think I exaggerate, let me ask you to compare the manufacture of watches as it existed in England twenty years ago with the same as it exists in Waltham to-day. All materials, labor, prestige and experience were in our favor, and we ought to have retained the trade. Nevertheless English consumers are today buying American watches in large quantities, and better ones for the money than can be made here."

Mr. Head further says:
"All this is because they have perfected their types and organized the manufacture in a more thoroughly scientific and better manner than our habits and prejudices would admit of our doing."

But, as a matter of fact, American watches are cheaper and better than English watches because this duty which The World calls a tax encouraged American watch makers to organize their factories in a more thoroughly scientific manner than their English and Swiss competitors are willing to, with their determination to keep both their investments in the machinery and wages low. The cheap production of watches, like the production of anything else to which machinery is applicable, is merely a matter of the capital the producers can raise to put into machinery and the intelligence of the operatives.

The lifelong effort of The World has been to destroy confidence in the future of American manufacturing, both in the cause of the English, whose industrial and banking interests it champions, and because the making and operating of the machinery necessitated by our high wages requires intelligent and well paid operatives—men as a class who do not support The World nor approve of its objects.

Pronounced Hopeless. Yet Saved.
From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote:

"Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman. Trial bottles, free at W. T. Sherer & Co.'s drugstore; regular size 50c and $1.00.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

An extensive display of postage stamps may be expected at the world's fair.

PERU has appropriated twenty-five thousand dollars to defray the expense of making its exhibit at the exposition.

The construction department of the exposition states that by August fully thirty thousand men will be at work on the world's fair buildings in Jackson park.

The American Indians want to be represented by an exhibit at the world's fair, and at the agencies in the west they are signing petitions to be granted the privilege.

ONE of the interesting objects which will be exhibited at the world's fair is a table, made from the timber of the house in Funchal, Madeira, in which Columbus lived.

GUATEMALA will send its national band to the exposition. This band is the third largest in the world, that of Austria being first, and the Mexican national band second.

THE sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been appropriated by the exposition directory for the construction of a pier extending fifteen hundred feet or more into Lake Michigan at Jackson park, and for an ornamental casino at its extremity.

The McCormick Land Association

LEANDER H. MCCORMICK, Trustee.

A syndicate is now being formed for the purpose of handling and improving 60 acres of property in McCormick's Subdivision of Hinsdale.

CAPITAL $150,000. SYNDICATE SHARES, $1,000 EACH.

Payable, cash $350

Sept 1, 1891, - 200

Jan. 1, 1892, - 250

June 1, 1892 - 200

The $150,000 includes $30,000 cash to be expended in improvements, $2,000 per acre, being paid for the land.

LOCATION OF THE PROPERTY.

Within 100 rods of the depot in the most beautiful part of Hinsdale; 10 miles from Chicago city limits on C. & N. W. R. R.; 125 acres daily; time, 30 minutes; commutation fare, 17 cents; 175 feet above the level of the lake; highest ground between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River; beautiful scenery and superb natural advantages. Five churches—two public schools—high school. Higher class of improvements to be put in than in any other suburb around Chicago. Artificial lake covering to acres. General park improvements, flower beds, winding drives, large trees, etc. Finest street improvements, sewers, water, paving, stone sidewalks, etc. The purchaser of a share in this syndicate will receive 1/10th of the profits realized on the entire 60 acres, which is equivalent to receiving all of the profits on 60 feet frontage, equal to 4 1/2 acres, so the investor in the syndicate comes in on the basis of $8.00 per front foot for the land and $2.00 per front foot to be spent on improvements.
The first lots put on the market will be sold at $25.00 per front foot, with every prospect of later sales being made at a much better figure, as other property in Hinsdale, farther from the depot than some of this, is now selling at $3.00 and more per front foot, without any street improvements. ## THE LOCAL TROTTERS GO WELL.

L. F. Holloway's gelding, Netwood, distinguishes himself by his Game Fight with Maud in the 2:50 Class Trotting-Race Notes.

The sun was hidden behind banks of lead colored clouds today, and the attendance was a trifle smaller in proportion.

Still there was nothing to make the ticket seller mourn for pasteboards were in good demand.

Was Looking For Smith. One of the watchmen caught a man crawling through a hole in the fence this afternoon.

"Hold on there. Where are you going?" he asked as he seized the man by the collar.

"Have you seen Smith in here?" "John Smith?" enquired the watchman with a tinge of sarcasm in his voice.

"Yes."

"I have not."

"Well, then, I'll go back through that hole. I was only looking for Smith. Much obliged."

"Don't mention it," replied the watchman. "Don't you want to walk down to the ticket office and put up fifty cents? Guess you had better," and the procession moved toward the gate.

A Red Hot Bakery.

"Red roll! Green! roll! double 'er up, gentlemen!"

"Wonder if they are running a bakery in that building?" remarked an old lady as she passed one of the dark-red edifices at the driving park.

"Yes," answered a long-faced young man, "and nearly everybody that patronizes it gets roasted."

The Day's Races.

The speed contests were fine. In the 2:23 class there were six horses entered as follows:

Billie Beverly by Swigert, Clara Wilkes by Onward, Bismont by Victor W. Bismark, Minnie Whitestone by Little York, Duke by Iron Duke, Ella E.

The first heat was a procession. Bismont had the pole, Clara Wilkes was in second place, Billy Beverly third, and Ella E. fourth, Duke being drawn. When they got to the wire Bismont was ahead, Billy Beverly breaking and dropping behind. That is the way they stood all the way around, Bismont winning handily in 2:24.

The 2:17 pacing race had five entrants: Nightingale by Alcantara, Dick C. by Gladstone, Ha W. Brown Hal, Riley by Howard's Copperbottom, Brighton Boy by Hambletonian.

The Hero of a Damage Suit.

As Elgin Riley was expected to win but he didn't. Dick C. out-paced him and won handily.

Riley is an Elgin horse, being owned by S. W. Chapman, president of the driving park, and became celebrated a few years ago as the subject of a law suit between Mr. Chapman and the Northwestern railroad company, the Elgin man suing for damages received by his horse while traveling on the railroad. A verdict for close to $4,000 was finally obtained, and after some more fighting it was paid, and now, after a long rest from turf joys, Riley is again scoring down for the world.

They drew positions as follows: Vic C. had the pole, Nightingale second, Prince Hal third and Riley fourth. They got a good send off and finished with Vic C. in the lead, Nightingale second, Prince Hal third, and Riley fourth. This is the way the judges placed them, although Prince Hal came in first. J. E. Gleason's field glass developed the fact that Prince Hal ran a good deal and he was put back at fourth place.

Couldn't Pick the Winner.

There were six horses entered in the four-year-old class, and no one was certain enough about the winner last night to buy a pool ticket. In the 2:23 race Billy Beverly sold at $10, Ella E. at $10, Clara Wilkes at $5, and the field at $3. Prince Hal was favorite in the pacing class selling at $10 to $6.

Janesville was represented today by Luna, by Phallmont, George McKay, and Therese Phallmont, by Phallmont, H. D. McKinney. Entries in the four-year-old race were: Enrie K. by Phallmont, P. H. Kellogg by Chester Chief, Lena M. by Ashland Wilks, Sabin's Counsellor by Counsellor.

Sabin's Counsellor met with an accident while being loaded on the cars at Rockford, and did not start.

Netwood's Hard Fight.

It was nearly 7 o'clock when the last heat was trotted yesterday afternoon. In the 2:50 class Maud was the fastest horse, although Netwood, L. F. Holloway's bay gelding, showed remarkable speed. After winning two heats handily, Maud dropped back to fourth and fifth place, while Netwood finished first. The judges held the watch on Maud and found that although she had trotted the first heat in 3:34 and the second in 3:5, the third and fourth heats were slow; nearly down to 2:40. Then they called Nare, Maud's driver, up for a little explanation. Nare was humble, and promised to drive his horse for all there was in it. Then Nare came up on the stand and protested that Wm. B's driver, Sheets, had caused Maud to break by cracking his whip in Maud's ears. The judges gave Wm. B. the heats.

Cheers for the Holloway Horse.

Netwood showed speed that astonished horsemen. Clark was in the sulky, and when he came under the wire a winner in the third heat, a mighty cheer went up. When he also won the fourth heat, the excitement ran high.

In the fifth heat it looked as if Netwood had the race won. He hung on Maud's wheel all the way around.

The judge's lecture had a good effect upon Nare, and he urged Maud for all there was in it. Netwood stuck to her, and was but half a length behind all the way. They stood that way when the stretch was reached, where Netwood broke and fell back.

Ed. Graham in Poor Shape.

The 2:30 trotting race was won quite readily by Lyeurgus, although Alix pushed him closely and won two heats. Ed. Graham, the favorite, acted badly, and after tailing in at sixth place twice was drawn. In the second heat he only missed being distanced by a head.

In the third heat Hattie K. and Alix collided, and Van Etten driver of Hattie K., was thrown from the sulky and slightly injured. Chandler, driver of Alix, was also thrown out, but succeeded in holding the horse.

Mayor Case in the Sulky.

Hattie K ran along, ahead in front of the leader, clear up the stretch. Starter McKinney pounded the bell, and Hattie K. hearing it slowed up, and was caught in less than one hundred feet from the stand. Mayor Jackson I Case drove the mare during the balance of the race.

LIES ABOUT FISH.

The Way Janesville Boys Answer Civil Questions.

ORIGINAL WAY OF FASTENING HOOKS.

The Brief Story of the Good Man Who Bought His Fish of a Lucky Boy and Then Lied to His Friends About the Transaction.

"Have you caught any fish today?" asked a tall man with a cigar in his mouth as he halted near a small boy who was watching a fish line from Fourth avenue bridge.

"None."

"Had any bites?"

"None."

"How long have you been fishing; an hour?"

"None."

"What do you use for bait, worms?"

"None."

"Minnows?"

"Liver?"

"None."

"Got any bait at all on your measly hook?"

"None."

"Then what in Sam Hill are you fishing for?"

"Aint fishin'."

"You young rascal! You mean to say you ain't fishing?"

"Yep."

"Don't trifle with me, young man; I'll tan your hide."

"Yer too fresh, mister," quoth the youngster as he climbed over the railing of the bridge and sat down on a projecting timber, out of reach. "I'm just watchin' 'Billy's' line while he went after some worms."

The man walked off and the boy explained to "Billy" as he climbed down with the can of worms "dat a guy wid side whiskers pretty near talked his arm off."

Made His Finger Sensible.

A little further along the bridge was another crowd of youngsters fishing. "Say, 'Chips,' why don't yer wet de finger dat yer holds der line wid?" asked one boy as he flashed a look of superiority at the intruding stranger.

"What do yer do dat fer?"

"Cause it makes de finger more sensible, and yer can feel de fish bite sooner."

Questions Cause a Disagreement.

But boys are not the only persons who have queer ideas on fishing. Over by the railroad bridge several men sat on the river bank watching their hand lines.

"Why do you tie the hooks on with the point away from the fish?" asked one of them as he surveyed the other man's line.

"Why? when you pull in your line the point of the hook don't catch on anything in the river bed."

"But when you get a fish on the hook what will hold him there?"

"Say now you just mind your own business, will you? I caught fish before you were born."

"That's all right; I didn't want to make you mad."

"Mind your own business or I'll punch your head in the water."

The two persevering fishermen separated. They came fishing together; they parted enemies.

This Man Lied and Sailed.

But by far the most touching scene of all was enacted near the ice house. On the bank sat a haggard little boy with a weatherbeaten cane pole in his hand. Down the river came a man in a rowboat. Projecting over the stern of the boat was a split bamboo rod worth ten dollars. The butt of the rod was a "Kentucky reel" worth twenty-five dollars. In the center of the boat was a patent minnow pawl worth three dollars. The man had on a pair of rubber boots worth five dollars and a fishing suit of canvas worth twelve dollars. The price paid for the minnow pawl would have bought all the boy's earthly possessions, but there was not a fish in the boat. As the haggard man neared the bank he asked the boy if he had caught anything. In reply the boy held up a string about a yard long.

The scientific angler surveyed the fish and then looked suspiciously all about him. The coast was clear.

"How much do you want for the string, sonny?"

"What'll you give?"

"Half a dollar."

"Here they are, mister," and the string soon laid under the seat in the boat and the boy wound up his line and started for home.

Down by the bridge was a party of men who evidently knew the scientific angler. As he pulled his boat up to the dock, one of them asked:

"How many did you get?"

"Let's see them."

As they examined the fish the scientific angler explained how each one was caught.

"That big one pretty near broke my line," he remarked, "but I finally landed him."

Yet that man's word on any subject would be taken for gospel truth by any man in Janesville.

An English Duke's Opinion.

In his very interesting and instructive article on American railways, published in the April number of the "Fortnightly Review," the Duke of Marlborough places the New York Central at the head of the great railway corporations of the United States.

Its central location through an almost continuous city from New York to Buffalo and Niagara Falls; its wonderful capacity for handling an immense traffic; its splendid passenger service, with eleven daily trains between New York and Buffalo and Niagara Falls, eight between New York and Chicago, three between New York and St. Louis, three between New York and Cincinnati; reaching by its own rails and through its connections every important commercial center in the country; its beautiful scenery, comprising as it does every variety of landscape; its entrance into the very heart of the metropolis of the country; these advantages, in connection with the number and variety of the health and pleasure resorts which it reaches by its unequalled through-car service, combine to impress the opinion upon all who investigate the subject, as the Duke of Marlborough did on his recent extended tour of the United States, that the New York Central is today "America's greatest railroad."—Troy Budget.

Sullivan, of Waverly, Kansas. Rev. M. Evans, of the First M. E. church, pronounced the happy words that united the young couple as husband and wife.

They were most heartily congratulated, after which all sat down to the wedding feast. At 6:35 in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan departed for their home in Waverly, Kansas, carrying with them best wishes of their host and friends of the fair bride. PARADE OF THE CIRCUS.

How the Adam Forepaugh Shows Can Be Seen to Good Advantage.

People who are too stingy or too conscientious to visit the Adam Forepaugh circus on the fair grounds next week, will no doubt be delighted to hear that they will nevertheless be able to gratify their very natural desire to see what it is like by the usual vast and inimitable street parade which will begin Wednesday morning. What will be exhibited in this splendid parade can not be described, but must be either seen or dreamt. There will, however, of course, be no end of crimson wagons, gilded chariots, and uniformed drivers. The daring acrobats and the reckless ladies who ride the barbed wire, and dance on tight ropes will be seen in all their native charms. There will be herds of nodding elephants, carrying their trunks with them, and camels enough to sentinel the desert of Sahara. The most amusing monkeys, the most talkative and profane parrots, and the ugliest hippopotamus may be seen dead free. The fiercest of the lions and tigers will be on the top of their splendid cage, instead of in it, and scowl helplessly at the populace as they ride by. All this is
